

Merger Agreement Is Reached

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An agreement for merging Pacific, West Coast, and Bonanza air lines—was announced Tuesday. The combination would create a system serving all Pacific Coast states and much of the Intermountain area from Calgary, Alta., and Great Falls, Mont., to Phoenix, Ariz.

A plan for merging Pacific and West Coast previously had been approved by managements of those lines. The new agreement adds Bonanza.

Pacific is headquartered in San Francisco and serves California, Nevada, and Oregon. West Coast, headquartered in Seattle, flies to Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah and Montana and to Calgary.

Bonanza is headquartered in Phoenix and serves Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California.
